SUPPLEMENT TO REQUEST FOR EXTENSION OF PAGE LENGTH LIMIT

Dow, Lohnes & Albertson hereby submits this supplement to its Request for Extension of Page Length Limit, which requested permission to exceed the page limit for petitions for reconsideration in rulemaking proceedings. As shown below, there is now additional information justifying grant of the Request.

First, the Petition for Reconsideration filed on this date by Dow, Lohnes & Albertson is considerably shorter than that originally contemplated by the Request. While the Request originally contemplated a petition of up to 100 pages in length, the Petition as filed has been reduced to approximately fifty pages in deference to the need for brevity. As a consequence, the length of the Petition is quite reasonable in light of the complexity of the issues in this matter and the length of the underlying Commission order.

Second, the Petition is being filed on behalf of more than 10 parties. Each party identified several issues which it believes warrant reconsideration.

The joint filing of the Petition has enabled the concerns of these parties to be consolidated, resulting in a single pleading longer than normally contemplated by the rules, but nevertheless considerably shorter in total than individual pleadings on behalf of each party would have been.

For these reasons, Dow, Lohnes & Albertson respectfully requests that the Commission grant its Request for Extension of Page Length Limit to the extent necessary to accommodate the Petition for Reconsideration as filed.

Respectfully submitted,

Brenda L. Fox
